

Journal of Forest Products Business Research

Mission

The purpose of the Journal of Forest Products Business Research (JFPBR) is to provide a forum for the publication of timely, rigorous, technically sound, scientific research manuscripts that focus on the forest industry. An international e-journal dedicated to recognition and growth of the academic field of forest products business, particularly management and marketing, JFPBR strives to disseminate new knowledge bridging the scientific and professional communities.

Article Types

The JFPBR accepts three types of manuscripts – scientific papers, synthesis papers, and editorials. Regardless of type, articles contribute something new to the body of scientific knowledge in the broad fields of forest products business and marketing. Research papers, theoretically or empirically oriented, describe investigations directed to the discovery of new knowledge. Synthesis papers summarize published and unpublished information that describe the state-of-the-art in scientific knowledge on a topic. Editorials allow members of the scientific community to express their opinions regarding the field and the state of research.

Publication Process

All published articles have undergone a review by the Editor, a double-blind review process with two reviewers deemed technically capable of such review as well as review from one member of the Editorial Board. The Editorial Board consists of: Steven Shook, University of Idaho, Editor; Robert Bush, Virginia Tech; Eric Hansen, Oregon State University; Rob Kozak, University of British Columbia; Lucie Ozanne, University of Canterbury; and Ritva Toivonen, Pellervo Economic Research Institute. Articles will be posted to the Forest Products Society website as they are accepted, and subscribers will be notified of the postings.

Subscriptions

Posted articles are available by subscription only. Subscription rates are $25 per year for Forest Products Society members; $50 for nonmembers; and $100 for library subscriptions. As a benefit of student membership in the Forest Products Society, student members receive a free subscription to the JFPBR.
