Society News & Announcements

Welcome to the new online site for Forest Products Journal! We apologize for the delay in 2013 publication of FPJ. The first four issues of 2013 are currently in the final stages of production. Issues 1 & 2 will be completed and available near the end of November with Issues 3 & 4 to follow shortly after. We are pleased to announce that pre-press articles will now be available before they are compiled into an actual issue. To view pre-press articles for issues 1, 2, 3, & 4 please visit our online early page.

Forest Products Journal (FPJ) is the source of information for industry leaders, researchers, teachers, students, and everyone interested in today's forest products industry. The Forest Products Journal is well respected for publishing high-quality peer-reviewed technical research findings at the applied or practical level that reflect the current state of wood science and technology. Articles suitable as Technical Notes are brief notes (generally 1,200 words or less) that describe new or improved equipment or techniques; report on findings produced as by-products of major studies; or outline progress to date on long-term projects. You'll find:

- A timely feature article related to an issue of importance to the international forest products industry.
- Peer-reviewed research articles.
- International training calendar
- Industry news
- Updates on changes in codes, standards, and regulations
- Reports on new or updated reference sources
- An employment referral service section for job seekers and employers

The Forest Products Journal is published 8 times per year, approximately every 6 weeks. Some issues may be combined, depending on the timing and number of articles submitted and accepted. See more at: http://www.forestprod.org/box_publications/forest_products_journal.php#tab=about
